In 1608 Capt. John Smith sailed up the Chesapeake Bay and landed at a small island he named Tangier. For many years Tangier was the hunting and fishing grounds of the Pocomoke Indians, but in 1666 a Mr. West bought the island from the Indians for two overcoats. He sold part of it to John Crockett who settled there in 1686 with his family. The rich oyster and crab grounds surrounding the Island drew early settlers to this remote spot. Your cruise leaves from Historic Reedville, Va., the center of the largest fishing industry in the United States. The ship often passes fishing boats working their nets or large ocean freighters traveling between Baltimore and Norfolk, or points beyond.
